THE MACKINTOSH ALPHABET

Mackintosh did not develop a set alphabet. Instead, he would manipulate his letters to suit their use. Sometimes a letter would take different forms, even in the same piece of text. He personalised his lettering by using elongated forms, extra lines and dots.

Look at the examples of Mackintosh's lettering.

- Try and copy his style of lettering.
- Create a monogram of your own initials.
- Insert other geometric shapes from 78 Derngate, such as squares and triangles, into your design.
